A GOOD COMPARISON.

The Rev. William Rodlatt, a well known Methodist clergyman, residing at Naples, draws the following amusing but apt comparison between Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a ferret.

"A ferret when placed at the entrance of a rat hole, enters the aperture, travels along the passage, seizes upon the rat, exterminates his existence and draws the animal's defunct carcass to the light. And in like manner have I found Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge to operate upon worms, those dreadful and dangerous tormentors of children. This remedy, like the ferret, enters the aperture of the mouth, travels down the gullet, hunts round the stomach and lays hold of the worms, shakes the life out of the reptiles, sweeps clean their den, and carries their carcasses clear out of the system. This at least has been the effect of the Vermifuge upon my children."

NEWS ITEMS FROM WALLA WALLA.

WALLA WALLA, May 4.—[Special.]—Irwin, who was stabbed Saturday ten miles from town, died this morning. The post mortem revealed that the stab penetrated the brain. Grimes, who is in jail, says it was done in self-defense. Irwin was quarrelsome when drinking. Grimes has borne a peaceable reputation twenty five years here. He has witnesses in Oregon but was unable to obtain them to-day. The inquest will be held to-morrow. There is much sympathy for Grimes. Irwin leaves a wife and child in poor circumstances. He was General Mead's orderly at the battle of Gettysburg.

Court convened this morning with 101 cases on the docket. Two are for murder and two as accessories to the same.

SAN FRANCISCO NOTES.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—[Special.]—A meeting of prominent democrats was held in one of the parlors of the Palace hotel Saturday evening to form a club after the style of the Manhattan club of New York. The club is intended to be the nucleus of a powerful social and political organization, and it will be extremely select, as the initiation fee will be $100 and dues correspondingly large.

Within a short time eleven vessels have sailed hence for the Alaskan islands to engage in cod fishing, the Jane A. Falkinburg and Helen W. Almy among them.

On Sunday when the steamer State of California arrived several police officers were stationed around her. It seems that since the steamer was overhauled it has been expedient to reduce the number of firemen. Union men here are adverse to the diminution, and threatened to take the ... men off the vessel on her arrival ... This accounts for the policemen's presence.

LIVELY DEBATES IN THE COMMONS

The War Credit Agreed to—Serious Charges Against General Wilson—El Mahdi Still Aggressive—News Notes

NEW YORK, May 4.—[Special.]—The Times' London special says: I do not in the least believe there will be peace or that the ministry has actually shown the white feather in seeking for it. The ministry have had no sense of perception in planning their spectacular effect. They went into the Russian imbroglio with undue fierceness and clamor at the start out of a weak desire to divert attention from the Soudan disgrace, and they have been handicapped by this event in their efforts and genuine efforts to make England's case ... just and put all the blame of aggression on Russia. The task of doing this ... doubly difficult has involved much which appeared to be surprise, but it has at last been accomplished. Yet even if the proposals are accepted the debate will only be over the shells of the dispute. Russia has the oyster and she assuredly will keep it. Out of that situation how can peace be restored? English public opinion will not brook Russian soldiers in sight of Herat. The Russian bureaucracy and aristocracy, which stand for public opinion, will not for an instant consent to withdrawal. There can be ultimately no logical outcome but war which diplomacy may postpone but cannot prevent. The controlling powers of Russia are primed for fight. They are excited and eager for the fray, and the vast machinery of the army has been set in motion with a cry for rich Asiatic loot and the occupation of Constantinople, and no Alexander ... were he a hundred fold wiser and braver than the present czar could arrest its movement. Russian officers do not believe in victory but they certainly believe in the profit to themselves which war would bring. It is a significant fact that in the council of state which convened at St. Petersburg to-day the ultra war party was distinctly in control.

Another cable special declares that France is for Russia and will be with Russia if circumstances should bring what seems a reasonably safe chance for the venture. De Freycinet will seize Egypt the first day after the beginning of the Anglo-Russian war ... which he feels certain that no Berlin-Vienna-Rome combination will interfere, and the English understand this perfectly but they borrow no trouble on this score for Italian and Hungarian sympathy grows daily more marked. Faith is growing too that Roumania, Servia and Greece are all hostile to Russia in the present crisis, being equally opposed to the aspirations of Bulgaria and Roumelia which Russian agents are fostering. It is believed also that Turkey is all right or will be come so when the subsidy has been made big enough.

The Sun's London special says: The improved prospect of peace has emboldened the radical wing of the liberal party and they are now determined to oppose the $55,000,000 war credit when the house goes into committee of supply on final passage. The bill will be opened by Henry Labouchere, radical member, who is such an ardent lover of peace that he is ready to fight for it any time. He proposes to offer an amendment to the effect that so large a credit is needless and prodigal in view of the immense deficit which it will ultimately cause. The government, however, will stand on every nerve to have the whole amount voted especially in view of the fact that fully one half has already been spent in advance of the request for a vote of credit.

IN THE COMMONS.

LONDON, May 4.—In the house of commons, referring to the subject of resumption of communications in London, England and Russia, Gladstone said they would be much facilitated by the more full and exact knowledge which the government now possessed of the ameer's views since the meeting between him and Earl Dufferin at Rawul Pindi, and valuable topographical information which had since reached England.

Right Hon. Sir Charles Dilke, president of the local government board, announced for the government that it was imperatively in the interest of the country that the house proceed at once with the vote of credit.

A number of members at once put interrogatories to the government concerning the trustworthiness of the reports both of General Sir Peter Lumsden and General Komaroff.

Gladstone answered in detail, stating in substance that the dispute of the Penjdeh incident had never been a question of the trial of any officer, but one which concerned the honor of the two governments involved in the March agreement. It was not in the power of either party to this March agreement to claim the exclusive right of interpretation. The speaker believed the agreement would be found sufficiently clear.

Lord Randolph Churchill, the young conservative leader, now arose and launched into a savage ... upon the government. The argument just made on behalf of the government was a terrible piece of news for those anxious for the safety of the Indian empire. The government ... out his lordship ... has made a base, cowardly surrender of every point at issue to Russia and I greatly fear it is as a result we have lost India.

Lord Randolph, continuing, said that he protested against the conduct of the government in submitting the vote of credit Monday last, without giving the slightest indication of their policy and the exact point at issue with Russia. The latter he contended had been for a longtime breaking the agreement of 1873, with respect to Central Asia. In regard to the Afghans, Lord Churchill insisted that the Russians long ago passed the boundary which they had promised to respect as the rightful frontier line of the ameer's dominion. In 1882 a series of pledges were voluntarily given by Russia concerning the boundary and all of them had been deliberately broken.

Mr. Henry Labouchere, radical, moved that the vote of credit be reduced from $55,000,000 to $36,000,000. The motion was rejected by 79 to 20. This majority included the conservative leaders. The Parnellites voted with the minority.

The speaker then put the main question, the vote of credit of $55,000,000.

Several members questioned Gladstone but failed to elicit any further information.

Sir Randolph Churchill said he feared that when the news should become known in India England would lose all the respect, sympathy and loyalty of the natives. He declared that the history of Russia's negotiations with England was a record of treachery, fraud and falsehood. Remembering the action of the government in the present matter and its useless sacrifices in the Soudan it was impossible to repose the slightest confidence in the government and it was foolish to acquiesce in the present vote. He implored the ministers who were dealing with the present crisis to remember the past perfidy of Russia and their duty to England and India. [Loud cheers.]

Mr. Gladstone said that there had been no change in the government's policy since Friday last, when the house unanimously voted in favor of the credit. The government was trying to obtain a definite ... Afghan frontier and he trusted they would succeed. At present there was no frontier in existence ... power to ... another ... He concluded ... desire an advanced ... that England had a right to ... Mr. Gladstone's ... appearance of hesitation in agreeing to the credit would be a serious public evil. He had no objection to sweeping criticism, but when, happily, there was a prospect of a favorable issue of the difficult crisis, he asked the house not to derogate from what it had already patriotically done. He declared that if in such a period of anxiety and difficulty the government were unworthy of being trusted, the sooner they were released from their responsibilities the better.

A motion that the debate be adjourned was negatived by a vote of 18 to 118.

Baron Henry de Worms, conservative, moved that the house be adjourned. Gladstone opposed the motion, saying he did so under a deep sense of public duty.

Sir Stafford Northcote explained that the opposition had no wish to exhibit a policy of hesitation but simply wanted time to understand the government's policy.

The motion to adjourn was lost by a vote of 10 to 111 and a further motion to adjourn the debate was rejected by a vote of 114 to 109. A still further motion to adjourn the house was made whereupon Mr. Gladstone suggested that if the vote for the war credit ... discussion on the subject could be raised Thursday in committee of supply. Sir Stafford North ... assented to this suggestion and the motion to adjourn the house was negatived. The vote of credit was agreed to by a vote of ... to ...

RUSSIA.

NOTES FROM ST. PETERSBURG.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 4.—Many wealthy Russian nobles are taking to gambling heavily on the stock exchange. Several of these amateurs have been ruined, and yesterday there were three suicides, owing to losses.

The opinion is gaining ground that war is the best thing that could happen, as business cannot be worse. The long uncertainty has completely paralyzed all legitimate enterprises. German residents here are very eager for war, as all the Baltic carrying trade would then pass over the German railways.

The ministers of finance and marine are confident there will be no war. The emperor is very impressionable and changes his opinion every day.

Pictures of Komaroff are exhibited in all windows. He is a great and popular hero throughout Russia.

ENGLAND.

A MEETING ARRANGED.

LONDON, May 4.—In the house of Lords, this afternoon, Granville, in reply to inquiries, stated that England and Russia had agreed to renew negotiations in London concerning the Afghan frontier question, and that a meeting of the delimitation commission had been arranged in detail. His lordship said both England and Russia had agreed that the difficulties which had arisen from the Penjdeh incident should be submitted to a full investigation and reference to friendly powers."

SERIOUS CHARGES AGAINST WILSON.

LONDON, May 4.—The Fortnightly Review publishes an article by Charles Williams, a Soudan correspondent, substantially proving the incompetency of Sir Charles Wilson and the virtual slaughter of Gordon by his negligence. The matter is to be brought up in parliament in a day or two, with probabilities of a court martial. Lord Charles Beresford and many blue jackets are willing to be witnesses.

CANADA.

TELEGRAPH LINES DOWN.

WINNIPEG, May 4.—The line is still down between Humboldt and Clarke's crossing. There is much speculation as to the cause of its remaining down so long. Repairers left Humboldt Saturday to look for the break and nothing has been heard of them. Private dispatches brought by courier to Humboldt and telegraphed from there to-day are dated at the camp six miles south of Gabriel's Crossing. This would indicate that Middleton has moved some four miles from Fish creek. It is known that the steamer Northcote was floated on Saturday, and it is supposed that she reached Clarke's Crossing long before this. The water is constantly rising in the river, which will allow of the steam being used to convey supplies.

ITALY.

A NEW OPENING IN VESUVIUS.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The Herald's Rome special says: Great excitement prevails at Terre del Greco, twelve kilometers from Naples owing to the appearance of a new opening in Mount Vesuvius from which lava is flowing abundantly, and which it is feared is the beginning of a serious eruption.

NAPLES, May 4.—The eruption of Vesuvius presents a grand spectacle at night and is viewed by crowds of visitors. Prof. Palmeira thinks there is no serious danger from the eruption.

THE SOUDAN.

A FORWARD MOVEMENT PROBABLE.

SUAKIM, May 4.—El Mahdi's men are becoming more daring every day. Last night they surrounded Lambouk and Otao and kept up a heavy fire on both places all night. The firing was, however, made from too long range to be effective. Another forward movement by the British troops is expected to take place to-morrow.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

TWO STRIKERS KILLED.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Sheriff Houchett of this city has just received word from Lemont that a collision occurred between troops and striking quarry men in that town this morning and that two strikers were killed. Two companies of troops went to Lemont from Joliet to guard the quarries there and to enable non-striking men to resume work. No details as yet have been received. The action of the sheriff of Will county in releasing the ... strikers captured by the troops near Joliet last Saturday and who came from Lemont is assigned as one of the causes for the present outbreak.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Adjutant General Vance has telegraphed Governor Oglesby an account of the riot at Lemont this forenoon. He relates that Colonel Bennett with four companies of infantry and one gatling gun reached Lemont at 9 this morning. A mob of 1000 strikers congregated and were ordered to disperse. They refused to do so and made a rush at the troops, throwing stones and injuring a number of soldiers. A shot from a house was also fired into the column. In self defense the troops fired, killing two strikers and wounding several others. The troops then proceeded to their destination to guard the quarries.

THE STRIKE BECOMING SERIOUS.

DENVER, May 4.—The Tribune Republican's specials from Gunnison and Grand Junction, state that promptly at 9 this morning in obedience to instructions from headquarters at Denver all members of the Knights of Labor in the employ of the Denver & Rio Grande railway quit work. At Gunnison the round house and freight house were closed. No freights are allowed to leave the yards. All the shops at Grand Junction are deserted. At Salida the yards are filled with hundreds of loaded freights which are not allowed to move. Thirty engines are housed with fires drawn. The strength of the strikers is estimated at 1000. Everything is quiet along the line. No serious trouble is anticipated.

THE TURF.

RACES AT NASHVILLE.

NASHVILLE, May 4.—First race, two year-olds, five furlongs—Prima Donna won, Juliette second, Forth one third, time 1:06. Uncle Dan was first in by a length but was set back for crossing the others at the head of the home stretch.

Second race, merchant stakes, all ages, dash of a mile and one-eighth—Gilmore won, Arelino second, Madison third, time 2:00.

Third race, mile heats—Boulevard won two straight heats, Slocum and Virgie Hearne second and third in both heats, time, 1 47½, 1 48.

Fourth race, three-year-olds, three-fourths of a mile—Tabitha won, Erebus second, Tecumseh third, time 1 19.

NOTABLE DEAD.

DEATH OF MRS. VANDERBILT.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Mrs. Frank A. Vanderbilt, widow of Commodore Vanderbilt, died at 9 o'clock this morning. She had been ill with pneumonia.

DWELLING BURNED.

At ... this morning an alarm was turned in from box 9, corner North Eighth and E, occasioned by the burning of a dwelling house situated on North Tenth between J and K, owned by George Hartness and occupied by J. M. Frazer, a steamboat man. An alarm was telegraphed in several minutes before, from W. P. Lewis & Co's planing mill in the immediate neighborhood. The fire probably caught from a lamp which had been left burning in the kitchen, and had made such headway that the family when awakened by stifling smoke had barely time to escape. None of the household effects were saved. Mr. Frazer's loss is about $1000, insured for $540 in the Oakland Home. Mr. Hartness' loss is about $800, probably insured. Fred Mays of Three's company was struck on the head by a brick from a falling chimney and received a severe scalp wound.

THE EAST SIDE.

SUSPICIONS—SEVERELY BURNED.

Upon Mrs. Wilkie, residing on the northeast corner of H and Seventh streets, kindling a fire in her cook stove yesterday morning, some very inflammable material caused a sudden and extensive blaze, which raised the stove lids from their places and extended to her person, burning her severely about the face, breast and arms. Her daughter, who resides with her, rushed to her assistance and extinguished the fire from her clothing. Mrs. Wilkie is separated from her husband, who it is said resides at Rooster Rock, and Mr. Durbin, who resides next door, states that Sunday evening, while Mrs. Wilkie and her daughter were at church, a stranger entered the house and remained for a short time. These circumstances have created a suspicion that the stove-wood had been tampered with, but Mrs. Wilkie confessed to using coal oil in kindling the fire, so that suspicion may be erroneous. The victim is suffering intensely and will be an invalid for a long time.

DOUBLE BANKED.

Winfield Oliver, who was arrested Sunday evening for disturbing the peace by fighting on Fifth street, pleaded guilty before the recorder yesterday morning, and was fined $5. Later in the day he was arrested on a warrant from Justice Coleman's court, charging him with assault and battery, and was again fined $5. Two others were engaged in the fight and have escaped arrest and punishment while the one who made no attempt to escape justice and confessed his offense is rewarded by a double punishment. Looks more like a desire for fees than justice.

The Ladies' Relief Society will hold its regular monthly meeting in the lecture room of the Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon, May ..., at 2 o'clock.

THE OREGON GRANGER CASE

The opinion of Judge Deady on the petition for instructions in ex parte Richard Koehler, receiver of the Oregon and California Railway company, is given as his "present impression of the rights and duties of the receiver in the premises" but it is evidently his mature opinion upon the question of the extent of the power of the legislature to prescribe rates of transportation. "The power of the legislature to alter or repeal the general incorporation act of Oregon is qualified," he says, "so that it cannot thereby impair or destroy any vested corporate right." This qualification, such as it is, exists by virtue of the federal prohibition, and the insertion of the clause in our state constitution—"but not so as to impair or destroy any vested corporate rights"—does not in our judgment affect the power of the legislature. The power of the legislature in other words, is limited only by the constitution of the United States, as interpreted by the supreme court in the Dartmouth college case. Judge Story in his concurring opinion in that case, implies very clearly, if he does not expressly say, that, in the absence of the federal prohibition against impairing the obligation of contracts, the power of the legislature to alter, amend or repeal the charters of private corporations would be unlimited. But in view of this provision of the federal constitution, he said, "If the legislature mean to claim such an authority, it must be reserved in the grant." Many of the states, as the supreme court said in its decision of the Spring Valley water case, acted upon the suggestion of Judge Story, and inserted provisions by which such authority was expressly retained. This is doubtless what the authors of our state constitution intended to do when they formed section 2 of article XI. The constitution could not confer upon the legislature the power to pass any law, or to alter, amend or repeal any law "so as to impair or destroy any vested corporate rights." The qualifying clause in that section accordingly has no force or significance except as it recognizes the authority of the federal prohibition by incorporating it in our state constitution. The clause imposes no limitation upon the power of the legislature which would not exist without it, and the question therefore is simply whether the general corporation act of this state, under which this railway company was formed, has given it a vested right to prescribe its own rates of transportation, subject only to be controlled by the courts when controversies may arise as to what is a reasonable charge. Judge Deady holds that it has,—that the legislature intended to confer upon the company the authority to take reasonable tolls, and that so far the act constituted a contract between the state and the corporation, the obligation of which could not be impaired by any subsequent legislation. While, therefore, he does not directly and in specific terms overrule the act of February, 1885, he does so in effect by holding that the power of the legislature to limit the rates the company may prescribe to what is reasonable, is subject to the control of the courts. The limited power which he concedes to the legislature can have no determining force upon the compensation the company may receive for its service. The company is still free to "take such tolls for freight and passengers as are consistent with the duty and obligation they owe to the public as common carriers" and the court—not the legislature—is to decide as to what is consistent.

Judge Deady decides that the maximum rate of four cents a mile for transporting passengers is, under all the circumstances, reasonable, and so he lets that stand. He takes it for granted that the maximum allowed for the transportation of freight is likewise reasonable, and therefore gives it judicial sanction. But the prohibition against taking more for a short haul than a long one when the rate which is obtainable is affected by water competition, will have the effect to compel the company to carry goods to and from these competing points at less than a reasonable rate or not at all, and therefore it is overruled by the court.

As the framers of the constitution are presumed to have known that the federal law prohibited the legislature from passing any law to impair or destroy the vested rights of corporations, that clause of our constitution which Judge Deady relies upon in taking this case out of the range of the judgment of the supreme court in the Granger cases, may be regarded as supererogatory. So we believe the legislature is not to be presumed to have undertaken the supererogatory task of enacting so plain and self evident a proposition, as that a common carrier is entitled to receive reasonable compensation for its services into a contract. Judge Deady in his opinion in 8 Sawyer, to which he refers, says that the legislature in enacting section 36 of the corporation act "is presumed to have acted with knowledge of and reference to the fact that by the common law a common carrier was only entitled to reasonable compensation for its services." It seems hardly probable that the legislature should grant to a corporation a right it has at common law in such a manner as to divest itself of the only power to alter or amend this act that it would be of any importance to the sovereignty of the state for it to possess. Mr Justice Miller, in delivering the opinion of the court in New Jersey vs Yard [illegible] says "the writer of this opinion has always believed, and believes now, that one legislature has no power to bargain away the right of any succeeding legislature to levy taxes in as full a manner as the constitution will permit." A legislature is not to be presumed to have divested the state of an attribute of sovereignty. We believe that Judge Deady's first impression in regard to the intention of section 36 of the corporation act was correct. "It is altogether probable," he says in 8 Sawyer, "that the clause concerning tolls was inserted in this section primarily to authorize the taking of tolls at all, and then, for the time being, at least, only in such amount as the corporation might prescribe—that is, fix and set down beforehand and not according to the whim or caprice of each occasion."

It was decided in the Granger cases (94 U. S., 164,) that where the constitution of a state reserves to the legislature the power to alter or repeal acts of incorporation at any time, it may prescribe a maximum rate of charges for fares and freight, although the charter of the road has [illegible] to [illegible] and receive such rates as [illegible] The [illegible] will be [illegible] a reasonable compensation. The legislature has surely the power to establish a maximum rate within the bounds of reason. We cannot see, therefore, how this case differs in any essential particulars from the Granger cases. As to the claim that the courts must decide what is reasonable and not the legislature, we need only repeat the language of Chief Justice Waite in applying the rule laid down in Munn vs Illinois to the point in question. "Where property has been clothed with a public interest, the legislature may fix a limit to that which shall in law be reasonable for its use. This limit binds the courts as well as the people. If it has been improperly fixed, the legislature, not the courts, must be appealed to for the change."

The immigrant passenger rate between New York and Portland was cut down yesterday to $44, and there seems a prospect that the war between the transcontinental lines will put the rate still lower. We are in a position to derive only benefit from this railway rivalry, and the longer it lasts and the bitterer it grows the better for us.

It is not surprising that the people at Lewiston, in northern Idaho, feel nervous [illegible] the prospective return of the Nez Perce warriors who have been under banishment in the Indian territory during the past five years. They have a right to object to it, particularly as the troops have been withdrawn from Fort Lapwai.

The "apparent slowness" to which Mr Anthony Noltner so feelingly alluded the other day is not so slow after all. There have been, it is true, but three appointments in this state under the new administration, but they involve a good deal more than appears on the surface of things. The appraiser has no patronage, but the collector of internal revenue has eleven under-appointments, and the collector of customs at Astoria has, we believe, five. Now, under the democratic theory of civil service reform, nineteen people are provided for—Schenck, Whiteaker, Hobson and sixteen others. It will be seen that the roses fall in clusters.

RESPECTING CONGRESSIONAL JUNKETS

Our neighbor the Evening Telegram, notes the purpose of a senatorial committee to visit the various Indian schools of the country during recess, their tour to take in Alaska, and adds "A thorough report on the condition of the Indian schools as they are known to exist elsewhere in the country than Alaska might be of benefit, but no committee or commission is required to obtain it. The teachers in charge are fitted to furnish the information in much better form than could be done by a committee. The creation of such bodies is, however, very common. It affords excellent opportunities for gratifying the inclinations of those who wish to go a junketing without having to pay for the pleasure enjoyed." The proposition to appoint teachers of Indian schools inspectors of their own work strikes us as pretty much like appointing an official to be auditor of his own accounts. Certainly nobody would expect from such sources other than entire and glowing approval. The thing to be gotten at is not the teachers' views of their work, but how it looks to the people who prompt and pay for it, and who so fit for such duty of inspection as members of congress or the senate who are called upon to vote appropriations? The prudence which chooses the hot month of August for the Alaska trip, is not as the Telegram seems to think, a proper matter of criticism.

The idea that a teacher is the best judge of his own work, possibly grows out of familiarity with our public school system with which it is in perfect accord. It is this leaving of specialties to specialists which has loaded down our schools with hobbies and which makes them so outrageously expensive. If instead of leaving our schools wholly to schoolmasters we had kept them from the beginning under common sense and wholesome inspection and discipline, we should not now have such an overgrown monster of an elephant to deal with.

These congressional junketings are a good deal more important than they seem. Their specific errand is but a small part of their purpose. It may not be that the work of Indian education in Alaska is important enough to command the patronage of a senatorial committee but it is important that the government should know something at first hands about the great country which has so long been a terra incognita. It is something more than possible that the government just now tardily furnished Alaska would have been created years ago, if congress had known more about the country. We believe that the money to be paid for the visit of the senatorial committee will be money well spent. We believe further, that any junket which promises to add to the intelligence of our law makers about the country to which their laws will apply, is an important public enterprise.

The reports from Europe mean nothing that we can see. A correspondent furnishes a chapter of speculation, based upon nothing in particular and ending nowhere. The only fact visible through it is neither assurance of peace nor of war.

The horse show reported from Yamhill county is but one of the many similar exhibitions this spring in various parts of the state. They show an increased and general interest in stock production which promises well.

According to a special printed on another page the rascals will be turned out on the installment plan. The state department has about cleaned up, and now it is the turn of Mr Manning.

They had an earthquake up at Sprague, in Washington territory, yesterday. Another is expected at Olympia very shortly.

YAMHILL COUNTY HORSE SHOW

McMINNVILLE, May 4

The annual horse show was held at this place on Saturday, and many fine horses were exhibited, most of them, of course, belonging in this county, although Polk, Marion, Douglas and Washington counties were represented. Following I have attempted to give a list of all that were on the ground, and if I have omitted any, it has been unintentional.

Don Pedro, Jr—Clyde, Cleveland Boy and Morgan, 4 years old, 16 hands high and weighs 1410. R F Wood, owner

Pedro Boy—Same stock on the sire's side as Don Pedro, Jr; dam's stock, Sidney and Whip. He is a dark brown, 16½ high, weighs 1400. Owned by W H Wood

Tornado—An imported pure-bred French Canadian stallion, 15½ hands, weighs 1200. Owned by Kennedy & Smith

Autocrat, Jr—Morgan, Patcher and Messenger stock, blood born, 8 years, 16¼ hands, weighs 1140. Owned by T C Stevenson

Wrecker—Rysdeck Hambletonian, a beautiful brown, 16½ hands, weighs 930. John Redmond, owner

Al Bute—Sired by George Wilkes' s h, he by Asteroid, son of Lexington, first dam, Sparrow Hawk, by Humboldt; chestnut sorrel, 16 hands, weighs 1100. I and M Townsend, owners

Major—A three-quarter Norman, dapple gray, 4 years, 16½ hands, weighs 1340. Owned by T H Hunsaker, of Marion county

Rob Roy—Half Henry, half Clyde, bred from Rob Roy, imp, bright bay, 16 hands, weighs 1170. Charles Cooper, owner

Mack—⅝ Clyde, sired by Merry Mason, sorrel, 16 hands, W M Cooper, owner

Young Henry—¾ Henry, ¼ Sidney, dark brown, 2 years, 15¾ hands, weighs 1110. I H Stevens, owner

Young Cleveland—English draft Cleveland Boy and Henry, dark dapple bay, 4 years, 16½ hands, weighs 1170. Jas Fletcher

Major Glenold—½ Clyde from Old Glenold imp, dark bay, 7 years, 17 hands, weighs 1600. Lawrse Bros of Washington county, owners

Young England—English draft, bright bay, 4 years, 16 hands, weighs 1550. J S Hibbs, owner

Blitzer—½ Clyde, black with white points, 3 years old, 16 hands high and weighs 1350, owned by James McCullough, of Ballston, Polk county

Perfection—Autocrat stock, 5 years old, 16 hands high, and weighs 1240, owned by — Provost.

Slasher—Sire, King William, dam, Flora by Immigrant; is a dark bay, 4 years old, about 16½ hands high and weighs 1730, owned by J F Miller

[illegible]—Sire, King William, dam, Lady Jane by [illegible], Canadian [illegible], 2 years old, [illegible] hands high and weighs [illegible], owned by [illegible] of Broadmead farm

Old Milton—Sire, George and Hackaway, imported from Canada, blood bay, [illegible] years old, 16 hands [illegible] inches high and weighs 1570, owned by John W Hulery of this city

White Prince—Percheron, by Myers old White Prince, white, 9 years, 16½ hands, weighs 1[illegible]0, owned by John Burt of Douglas county

Don Sancho—½ Clyde, ¼ Cleveland Boy, ¼ Henry, 4 years, 16 hands, weighs 1150, A W Hewitt, owner

Fred Pearl—English draft, dark bay, 7 years, 16½ hands, weighs 1550, owned by F I Hayes

King Charles—½ Clyde, ¼ Morgan, ¼ Henry, chestnut sorrel, 5 years, weighs 1016, P C Thompson owner

Cordle—Yearling filly, Henry and Clyde, sorrel, 15 hands, weighs 850. W H Fletcher, owner

[illegible] Dudley—By Glen Dudley, dam Nellie [illegible] by a Bulmede and Gourd Hed, dark bay, [illegible] years, 13 hands, weighs 780. He is a beauty. W J Harrison, Jr, owner

[illegible], Jr—Full blood Henry, sired by old [illegible], 4 years old, 15 hands three inches high, and weighs 1[illegible], owned by R W Phillips

[illegible]—Percheron, Longheart and Henry, sired by Old Widow Wake roan, 3 years, 16 hands, weighs 11[illegible]. Henry Hew, owner

Roscoe—[illegible] Norman, Jack Miller, Whip and Henry, [illegible], 4 years, 16 hands, weighs 1[illegible]. H F Morris, owner

Young Milton—Royal George, sired by Old Milton, from Royal George and Whip Mare, [illegible] years old, 16 hands high, and weighs 1500. Todd and Bro, owners

Juniper—Sired by Humbletonian Membrino [illegible] of a Milton mare, [illegible] years, 11 and stands about 16 hands high. [illegible] owner

Gray Jay—Rumbling [illegible] and George, 8 years, 16½ hands high, weighs 1[illegible], dapple gray. J McKenny, owner

The exhibition was ahead of any we have ever had in the county. The number of horses and quality were splendid. A great many people witnessed the show.

Not being posted in horse talk, I am under obligations to Mr A. V. R. Snyder, of the Reporter, for the use of his notes.

THE HOULT BILL.

Judge Deady's Opinion Sustaining its Principal Features but Denying the Right of the Legislature to Absolutely Fix Rates

U. S. Circuit Court, District of Oregon

Monday, May 4, 1885

Ex parte Richard Koehler, Receiver of the O. & C. Railway. No. 1100. Petition for instructions.

(1) CORPORATION ACT—VESTED RIGHT THEREUNDER—[illegible] BY THE LEGISLATURE. The power of the legislature to alter or repeal the general incorporation act of Oregon is qualified so that it cannot thereby impair or destroy any vested corporate right.

(2) RIGHT TO A REASONABLE COMPENSATION. A railway corporation formed under the general incorporation act of Oregon, has a vested right to collect and receive a reasonable compensation for the transportation of persons and property over its road, which the legislature cannot impair or destroy.

(3) LEGISLATURE MAY PRESCRIBE RATES OF TRANSPORTATION. The legislature may prescribe rates of transportation and the same will be presumed to be reasonable until the contrary is shown, but the judiciary are the final judges of what is reasonable or what impairs the vested right of the corporation to a reasonable compensation for its services.

(4) DISCRIMINATION BY RAILWAY CORPORATIONS. The legislature may prohibit any discrimination by a railway corporation between persons or places unless the same is founded on the fact of competition at one place or point where there are [illegible] means of transportation and in such case it may charge less for a long haul than a short one in the same direction so long as the charges for the latter is reasonable.

DEADY, J

On January 19, 1885, Mr Richard Koehler was appointed receiver by this court in the suit of Harrison et al v. The Oregon and California Railway Company et al, of the road of said company, comprising upwards of 400 miles of track, leading from Portland via the east side of the Wallamet river to Ashland, near the southern boundary of this state, with a branch from Albany to Lebanon, and from Portland via the west side of said river to Corvallis.

On February 20, 1885, the legislative assembly of the state of Oregon passed an act entitled, "An act to regulate the transportation of passengers and freight by railroad corporations," which will take effect, by operation of the constitution, on May 21.

On April 23 the receiver presented a petition to this court, asking for instructions concerning his duty in the management of said property in certain particulars covered or affected by said act, which he says he is advised by his counsel is unconstitutional and void.

The act is very verbose and unskillfully drawn, but so far as it relates to the matters about which the receiver seeks direction, it may be briefly stated as follows:

(1) The fare for the transportation of passengers shall in no case exceed 4 cents a mile.

(2) All charges for transporting property shall be reasonable, but the rate charged on January 1, 1885, by any corporation shall be its maximum rate.

(3) No "greater or less" compensation shall be charged one person than another "for like and contemporaneous service" in transporting property.

(4) No rebate or drawback shall be allowed in any case, except when property is shipped for points beyond the limits of the state.

(5) Pooling freight or dividing the earnings of "different and competing" railways is prohibited.

(6) No greater rate shall be charged for carrying similar property a short haul than a long one, in the same direction.

Any person who violates any provision of the act is made liable to the person injured in treble damages and a fine of $1000.

So far as the act undertakes to fix the charges for carrying passengers and freight it is claimed to be void on the ground that it impairs the obligation of the contract of the state with the corporation to the effect that the latter might prescribe and fix its own tolls and charges, contrary to s10 of article I of the national constitution.

By s2 of article IX of the constitution of Oregon it is provided that "Corporations may be formed under general laws * * * All laws passed pursuant to this section may be altered, amended or repealed, but not so as to impair or destroy any vested corporate right."

The Oregon and California railway company was formed under the general corporation act passed pursuant to this constitutional provision on October 14, 1862, which act contains the following section:

Sec 36. Every corporation formed under this act for the construction of a railway, as to such road shall be deemed a common carrier, and shall have power to collect and receive such tolls or freights for transportation of persons or property thereon as it may prescribe. Or. Laws, 532.

In Wells, Fargo & Co. vs. the O. R. & N. Co., (8 Saw., 614), this court held that this section only authorized the corporation to charge a reasonable compensation for the transportation of persons and property, but that so far it constituted a contract between the state and the corporation, the obligation of which it could not impair by any subsequent legislation.

This conclusion, of course, implies that the right or franchise of the corporation to demand and have a reasonable compensation for the carriage of persons and property is a "vested" one, within the meaning of the constitution of the state, and therefore cannot be impaired or destroyed by the legislature under the power to alter, amend or repeal the general corporation act.

But it is admitted that the right of the corporation to fix its rates and fares is not absolute, and that, if necessary, the legislature may limit the same to what is reasonable. Nor, in my judgment, is the power of the legislature over the subject absolute. It cannot require the corporation to accept less than a reasonable compensation for its services. And while the presumption may be, and doubtless is, that any rate which the legislature may prescribe is a reasonable one, such presumption is not conclusive, and may be overcome by evidence to the contrary in any case when the question arises before the courts.

I am aware, that in what are called the Granger cases (94 U. S., 155-187), it was practically held that the action of the legislature in fixing the maximum rate of compensation for certain railways was conclusive of the question and could only be reviewed or reversed at the polls.

But in none of these cases as I read them was the power of alteration or repeal reserved to the state, qualified as in Oregon so that it could not be used "to impair or destroy any vested corporate right." And the contention of the corporations in those cases was, that although the state had reserved to itself the right of repeal without qualification, still the court ought in justice and right, to so limit its operation, as not to allow it to interfere with vested rights, as was suggested by Mr Chief Justice Shaw, in Commonwealth v. Essex Company, 13 Gray, 239. But the court refused to do so, and held in effect that under the unqualified power of appeal reserved to the state the legislature might deal with the subject as it pleased, even if it deprived the corporation of all right to compensation for services in the future, and there was no appeal from its action except to the polls and that if the business and property of the shareholders was thereby destroyed or rendered valueless they must blame themselves for engaging in a corporate enterprise under such precarious conditions.

Admitting then, that the legislature assembly has the power to prescribe a maximum rate for the carriage of persons and property and that such rate is presumed to be reasonable until the contrary is shown, I proceed briefly to consider the matters concerning which the receiver desires instruction.

And first as to the provision fixing the rates for carrying passengers.

There is no sufficient showing that the rate prescribed is not reasonable. The only distinct allegation in the petition to the contrary is that "the actual cost" of carrying "passengers on many portions of the road is in excess of the maximum rates allowed therefor." But what the effect is upon the receipts for passenger traffic on the road, as a whole, is not shown, and probably cannot be definitely ascertained except by experience.

It is commonly understood that now and prior to the passage of the act, the fare between Portland and Albany, Lebanon and Corvallis was 4[illegible] cents a mile, between Albany and Roseburg [illegible] cents, and between Roseburg and Ashland 7 cents, and on mileage tickets between Portland and Oregon City 2 cents a mile, between Portland and Albany and Lebanon 3 cents, and to all other points 4 cents a mile.

Owing to the increased cost of operation and the limited population and travel, it is probably true, that a rate which would be reasonable in the Wallamette valley would not pay expenses to the south of it. But if the legislature in fixing the rate, think proper to make it uniform over the whole line so as to make the more wealthy and populous portion of the state contribute to the income from the [illegible] of the southern portion thereof, I am not prepared to say that this is not the power to [illegible] the corporation to be heard to [illegible] so long at least, as the compensation received by it for the carriage of passengers over its road as a whole is reasonable.

While the road remains in the hands of a receiver of this court, it is not desirable that there should be any conflict between its management and the policy of the state, except when the latter is clearly contrary to the legal right and substantial interest of the road.

For the present the receiver will be instructed to operate the road in this respect in subordination to the act, and if experience shall prove that the rate is insufficient to yield the road, as a whole, a reasonable compensation, the matter may be further considered.

As to the matter of long and short hauls, the question, although prima facie one of discrimination, directly involves the right to a reasonable compensation.

I assume that the state has the power to prevent a railway company from discriminating between persons and places for the sake of putting one up or another down, or any other reason than the real exigencies of its business. Such discrimination, it seems to me, is a wanton injustice and may therefore be prohibited. It violates the fundamental maxim, which in effect forbids any one to so use his property as to injure another—sic utere tuo ut alienum non laedas.

The provisions of the act that I have condensed in paragraphs 3, 4 and 6 aforesaid, are intended to prevent this practice.

But where the discrimination is between places only and is the result of competition with other lines or means of transportation, the case, I think, is different. For instance, the act prescribes a reasonable rate for carrying freight between Corvallis and Portland, or from either to points intermediate thereto. But Corvallis is on the river, and has the advantage of water transportation for some months in the year. The carriage of goods by water usually costs less than by land, and as water craft are allowed to carry at a rate less than the maximum fixed for the railway, they will get all the freight from this point unless the latter is allowed to compete for it. But, if to do this, it must adopt the water rate for all the points intermediate between Portland and Corvallis, where there is no such competition, it is in effect required to carry freight to and from such points at a less rate than that which the legislature has declared to be reasonable, or else give up the business at Corvallis altogether. And the same result would follow as to Salem and other points on the east and west side lines, where there is convenient access to water transportation.

If the legislature can not require a railway corporation formed under the laws of the state to carry freight for nothing, or at any less rate than a reasonable one, then it necessarily follows that this provision of the act can not be enforced so far as to prevent the railway from competing with the water craft at Corvallis and other similarly situated points, even if in so doing they are compelled to charge less for a long haul than a short one in the same direction.

It is not the fault or contrivance of the railway that compels this discrimination, but it is the necessary result of circumstances altogether beyond its control. It is not done wantonly for the purpose of putting the one place up or the other down, but only to maintain its business against rival and competing lines of transportation. In other words the matter, so far as the railway is concerned, resolves itself into a choice of evils. It must either compete with the boats during the season of water transportation, and carry freight below what the legislature has declared to be a reasonable rate, or abandon the field, and let its road go to rust.

Nor can the shipper at the non-competing point or over the short haul complain, so long as his goods are carried at a reasonable rate. It is not the fault of the railway that the shipper who does business at a competing point has the advantage of him. It is a natural advantage which he must submit to, unless the legislature will undertake to equalize the matter by prohibiting the carriage of goods by water for a less rate than by rail. And when this is done, the inequalities of distance as well as place may also be overcome by requiring goods to pay the same rate over a short haul as a long one, and then the shipper at Ashland will be as near the market as any one.

As to the interchange of freights with the Oregonian Railway Company, the case stated in the petition does not seem to be one of pooling freights or dividing earnings, but rather a case of a long haul at a less rate than a short one in the same direction, to meet the contingency of river competition at Ray's or Fulquartz's landing.

Pooling freights or dividing earnings is resorted to by rival and competing lines of railway as a means of avoiding the cutting of rates, which if persisted in must result in corporate suicide. It is not apparent how a division of the earnings of two such roads can concern or affect the public, so long as the rate of transportation on them is reasonable. But assuming what is not admitted, that the legislature has the power to prohibit the practice, the Oregon and California and the Oregonian railways do not appear to be competing ones, but rather supporting ones—the latter serving as a feeder, branch or continuation of the former. Nor is the arrangement between them a pooling one, but simply one by which each carries for the other at a fixed price per ton per mile.

There is nothing in the arrangement which prevents the receiver from doing "like service" for any one else on the same terms, and I have no doubt he would be glad to.

The receiver is instructed:

(1) To carry passengers at a rate not exceeding four cents a mile on any portion of the road and for as much less on the whole or any part thereof as he may think advisable.

(2) To charge no more for the carriage of goods than the maximum allowed by the act, nor no more for a short haul than a long one in the same direction, except to and from points where the rate obtainable is affected by water transportation, in which case he may carry at as low a rate as the water craft do, without reference to the length of the haul.

(3) To continue the interchange of freight with the Oregonian railway on the footing of the present arrangement as long as he may think advisable, and,

(4) In the discharge of his duties, to otherwise obey and conform to the provisions of the act.

The foregoing contains my present impression of the rights and duties of the receiver in the premises. But being ex parte, of course it is given subject to further consideration and correction. The receiver is instructed to obey the act for the time being, except in the case of a long haul to or from a point affected by water transportation. If any one considers himself aggrieved by the action of the receiver in this particular, on application to this court leave will be given to bring an action herein against him for damages, so that the matter may be regularly and formally heard and determined.

As the question involved—"Has the corporation a contract with the state for the right to demand and have a reasonable compensation for the carriage of goods?"—is a federal one it is proper that the action should be brought in this court.

Mr John H. Whalley, for the petitioner.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

A DESPERATE TOUGH —Tom McGrath, arrested for being drunk and disorderly, failed to appear in the police court yesterday to answer to the charge, preferring to forfeit his bail, as he was only required to put up $10 McGrath conducted himself very badly when arrested and resisted the officers, fighting and kicking like an insane person. He is a violent and dangerous man when under the influence of liquor Not long since he tripped policeman Holmberg, who had him under arrest, and caused the officer to cut himself dangerously by falling against a window McGrath is quiet when not drunk, but he is no good, making his living by gambling, or worse. He is liable to get drunk at any time, and any time he is drunk is liable to kill some honest man Policemen should not be asked to risk their lives in taking such an incorrigible scamp to jail, and they will be doing no more than their duty to use their clubs upon him till he is in a condition to submit quietly to arrest. If he were killed, it would be but small loss to the community and only a case of retributive justice He had better give up drinking or leave the city

SUBSOIL DRAINING —Captain Lamson has twelve men at work digging trenches for draining his ten-acre farm on one of the hills west of the city The trenches are to be of an average depth of four feet and will be forty feet apart. It will take about 2½ miles of drain pipe to complete the work The ground is not swampy and lies in good shape for natural drainage, but Captain Lamson is a believer in artificial draining and will expend $1000 to test it He will plant the ground to fruit trees when drained He expects his drains will discharge water for about eight months in the year and will keep the ground dryer in wet weather and more moist in dry weather than it would naturally be The air supplied to the soil by the drain pipes when they are not carrying water will also, it is claimed, prove beneficial This is the first experiment in tile or subsoil draining in this section and the result will be watched with much interest. This style of draining has long been in vogue in other states and in Europe and it certainly ought to be beneficial in Oregon

TO TEST A NEW LAW —Yesterday the grand jury for the May term of the state circuit was sworn in It consists of the following citizens J H McMillen of East Portland, foreman, George Hartness, Simon Harris, W S Fletcher, C A Shaffer, George H Himes of Portland and W A Deardorff of Mt. Tabor Their first work was to find a joint indictment against Abe Lawrence, Joe Mullen and Jack Eves, for stealing $3 from the person of A Quinn It is understood that this indictment will be used as an instrument for testing the validity of the new law relating to the selection of jurors, which several able lawyers think is unconstitutional The supreme court, of course, will be called on to decide A reporter of THE OREGONIAN was informed last night that Judge Taylor expressed himself as holding the opinion that the law would not stand and has instructed the officers of Clatsop county to draw jurors under the old statute.

BRAKEMAN KILLED.—Jack McCarty, a brakeman on the Rocky mountain division of the N P R R, was killed a few days since three miles east of Heron The train was in motion and the engineer called for brakes. Jack dashed outside at the rail, and was not missed until the train reached Noxon. Then his absence was noted, telegraphed to Heron and a switch engine immediately dispatched to hunt him up. The remains of the poor fellow were found crushed beyond recognition Of the deceased but little is known more than that he was an inexperienced brakeman, and that he has a mother and brother in New York, and a brother in California In his pocket was found a receipt for $200, which showed he had sent that amount to his mother a few weeks previous. The remains were buried at Missoula.

MARRIED —A short time since [illegible] S Marshal Kelly received a letter from his brother, Dr Richmond Kelly, who stated that he was going to the New Orleans exposition and afterward to explore the national park, and asking his brother to accompany him Yesterday the latter was somewhat surprised to receive a dispatch stating that the doctor had left St. Paul for this city, accompanied by his bride. As this was the first intimation he had received that he had contemplated matrimony, his friends are anxiously awaiting his arrival to find out who the lady is Dr Kelly graduated from the medical school at Cincinnati some two years since, and has since been walking the hospitals there He intends to practice his profession here

FINED FOR JUMPING ON TRAINS.—G T Walker, who was arrested by Policeman Young on a charge of trespass, for jumping on the west side train, was fined $5 by Judge Moreland in the police court yesterday There have been half a dozen young men fined for the same thing, and the arrests will be kept up till the business of jumping on trains is put a stop to Policeman Young will do well to keep a watch on a gang of young hoodlums who infest the neighborhood of Fourth and Lincoln streets, robbing cherry trees and damaging unoccupied property A few arrests will teach these youngsters to respect the rights of property-owners, and not to make public nuisances of themselves

STREET CLEANING —There is more or less growling about the way in which the streets are cleaned and sprinkled, and there will always be some complaint about the work no matter how it is done, but the streets are now kept in so much better condition than ever before that the general public are well satisfied. The fact is that the work is as well done as is possible with the facilities furnished. If the city's horses are kept at work in the sprinkling carts, they cannot be utilized for removing the street sweepings, and the number of horses is not large enough to do both If the committee purchased more horses there would be a complaint of the expense There is no use in trying to please everybody, and no one but a crank tries to do so

CONCERT —The entertainment at Y M C A hall last evening, consisting of a vocal and instrumental concert, was one of the most enjoyable of the course and was well attended and the selections were all rendered in a manner which elicited hearty and prolonged applause, especially Mrs W A Wetzel, who was the recipient of three very hearty encores Prof Defferin gave a fine clarionet solo, accompanied upon the piano by Ralph Hoyt The duet by Mr and Mrs Wetzel was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience The piano solo by Miss [illegible] Whitbeck was executed with excellent taste The last entertainment of this course will take place May 18, and will consist of a lecture by Prof Ellis of Forest Grove

THE CHAPMAN INDICTMENT —Some time since the grand jury found an indictment against Mayor Chapman for malfeasance in office He was arraigned and subsequently filed a demurrer to the complaint It was argued and submitted and the matter was taken under advisement, and it appears to have been forgotten Report says that the case is to be dismissed, but that this action is delayed in order that the indictment may be held in terrorem over the mayor that he may be forced to do things which certain parties wish to be done The public would like to see the matter disposed of in some way If it is to be dismissed let it be dismissed, and if it is to come to trial let this generation see the outcome

BAD BLOOD BETWEEN DARKIES.—John Chew, a colored barber, was arrested yesterday on complaint of Theodore Campbell, another barber not so highly colored, charging him with assault with a deadly weapon It seems that the two parties had some words about a letter alleged to have been written to a woman, and neither of them happening to have a razor in his foot, a cane was brought into play and passed round for the benefit of both Campbell alleges that Chew's two companions aided him and that revolvers were drawn Mr Chew was required to furnish $400 bail for his appearance to answer to the charge to-day

ACCUSED OF IMPOLITENESS —Mrs Max Strahl applied at the police office last evening for a warrant for the arrest of A P Butler, a barber She stated that Butler borrowed a coat, vest and hat of her husband on Sunday, and that he had returned the hat only She asked him to return the coat and vest, whereupon, as she averred, Butler expressed the amiable intention of kicking her on the nose. She wished to have him arrested at once, and if he was guilty of the impoliteness charged he certainly deserved arrest. The judge having gone home, the warrant could not be issued

WANT INSURANCE MONEY —Suit was commenced in the U S circuit court yesterday by G H and J C Shambrock against the State Investment and Insurance company to recover $[illegible] and costs Plaintiffs are residents of the [illegible] and in Douglas county, and allege that they [illegible] 1884 paid the defendant $[illegible] to insure [illegible] on their stock of drugs and [illegible] that [illegible] the building and contents were burned [illegible] 1884 and the [illegible] since this suit is brought

FREIGHT FROM [illegible] MAY BE FORWARDED — Wells, Fargo & Company yesterday took out over the Oregon & California lines, the consignments from the east for Willamette valley points which had been carried to Portland by the Northern Pacific express Some of the packages have lain here four months and would have remained indefinitely except for interference by the U S. court.

TO IMPROVE ST MARY'S CEMETERY —The Roman Catholics of Portland met Sunday at 4 P M at Library hall, to devise means for improving and beautifying their cemetery, to have water brought in and to have a caretaker appointed About seventy five persons were present A committee was appointed to see what it would cost to have water introduced The meeting adjourned to meet at same time and place next Sunday, when all interested are invited to attend, ladies as well as gentlemen

NEW MEETING ROOM —A meeting of the exempt firemen's association was held at the police court room last evening to take steps for securing a hall for the meetings of the society Henry Weinhard kindly tendered the association the use of his hall at the corner of Ash and Second streets, where the meetings of the German aid society are held The offer will doubtless be accepted if the nights of meeting can be arranged so as not to interfere with other societies now meeting there

LIVELY ICE TRAFFIC —Ice wagons are kept busy this hot weather and the ice machines are running on full time The ice men had to commence drawing on the reserve stores on the 1st of March this year, whereas commonly they do not have to do this till the 1st of May With two ice factories and one natural ice company, we should be able to keep cool under any circumstances

DECORATION DAY ORATOR —The committee on arrangement for Memorial Day service, composed of members of the various posts of the Grand Army of the Republic, have invited Mr S B Pettengill of THE OREGONIAN to deliver the memorial address He will accept.

WILL RECOGNIZE PORTLAND

The Short Line Expresses Willingness to Allow this City to Compete for Idaho Trade

Several days ago THE OREGONIAN called attention editorially to the fact that the Oregon Short Line had ignored Portland in the matter of the southern Idaho trade and published the views of several large shippers and others interested, which gave in detail their grievances It is evident that Portland's claims to consideration at the hands of the new line as part compensation for a liberal share of her through traffic from the east presented publicly for the first time by this journal have reached the Union Pacific officials at Omaha Yesterday the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co received a telegram from Traffic Manager Kimball of the Union Pacific asking them to join the Short Line in a reasonable rate from Portland to Kuna and all points between Huntington and Kuna also between Kuna and Shoshone including the Wood River branch The rates are quite as low as Portland could ask and considerably lower than the southern Idaho people have been paying The Union Pacific also agrees that rates on goods originating on the Pacific coast shall be as low from Portland as from San Francisco Full details could not be well arranged by wire but the O R & N Company have agreed with the Union Pacific on a general plan of work It is sufficient to say that so far as transportation rates are concerned Portland will be able to compete for whatever trade she wants in southern Idaho

While numerous letters have been written from this city to the management of the Short Line during the past three months calling attention to the fact that Portland was neglected in the matter of the southern Idaho trade —some by the company's representative here some by the O R & N and some by private shippers none ever met with a satisfactory answer one way or the other They seem to have been pigeon holed The matter of having ignored Portland was probably a case of partly excusable neglect Shortly before the Short Line was completed there was a complete change in the general management and a sweeping out of sub-officers in the operating department Then came two months of snow blockades in Oregon in Idaho and on the main line The principal business of the Union Pacific is centered at Omaha Denver and Kansas City where their opposition is so great that every effort is required to meet it and in this the new officers have had their hands over full Still there is a feeling here that some little attention might have been paid to Portland's requests However if the new line carries out its present expressed intentions past neglect will be forgotten

THE STAGE

THE CASINO —The first performance of 'Fatinitza' was not over till so late an hour last evening that any extended notice must be left over It will need no encomiums from the press to ensure crowded houses for the opera is one of the most effective productions since the opening of the house Long as were the waits between the acts, incidental to scene setting and so forth, the large audience were at 12 o'clock as determined a vociferous redemand for number after number as in the first act. It was apparent early in the evening that the opera had "caught on," and the actors and audience were en rapport The snow scene, admirably painted and mounted, elicited a burst of approving applause on the rise of the curtain, and the enthusiasm never flagged With such a card in the pack it is hard to understand why it was not played to open the season, and it would seem that had "Fatinitza" been produced instead of the "Royal Middy," it would have been many hundreds of dollars in the managerial pocket The opera is put on without stint in outlay, and both in singing and acting evidences what a first rate company we have for the summer season Miss Lester introduces in the last act a polka song by Arditi, which she sang superbly As an encore she sang a charming chansonette with waltz refrain by Buralist (both effectively scored by Mr Kinross) for which she was encored four times The shadow pantomime was cleverly done and provoked great laughter The sleigh and horse were a great success, the latter acquitting himself as an operatic horse should do If he didn't sing it was because he was hoarse, so to speak Altogether Mr Gates has produced a first class performance, which is highly creditable to him as stage manager

JUDGE STRONG'S CASE.

The Petition to have him Declared of Unsound Mind Dismissed.

Full Text of the Opinion Delivered by Hon J C. Moreland County Judge The Testimony Reviewed

In the county court yesterday morning Judge J C Moreland dismissed the petition asking that Judge William Strong be declared non compos mentis and that a guardian be appointed for him. Following is the full text of the opinion

The children of William Strong six in number, men and women, who are all past majority filed a petition to have their father declared incapable of caring for himself and to have a guardian appointed for his person and estate

The respondent answered the petition, denying his incompetency to care for himself and the case was heard upon the evidence

The petition is filed under section 13 page 555 of the code which provides that when the relatives or friends of an insane person * * * shall apply to the county court by petition in writing to have a guardian appointed for him the judge shall give notice, etc and if after a full hearing it shall appear to the judge that the person in question is incapable of taking care of himself the judge shall appoint a guardian of his person and estate

The legal questions presented for the argument were What state of mind must a person be in who is incapable of caring for himself and what is the degree of proof required The latter of these questions has been answered by the supreme court in Smith vs Smith 5 Oregon 186 wherein it is declared that by the terms of subdivision 3 section 835 of the code in all civil causes the finding shall be according to the preponderance of the evidence even though the grounds of relief involved a charge of crime Under this section of the code and this interpretation by the highest tribunal of the state this is a civil cause and is to be determined by a preponderance of the evidence and not beyond a reasonable doubt

As to the first point there is no adjudicated case under this statute in this state nor has any decision under a similar statute been cited There are various degrees of insanity and the border line is very difficult of discernment. No one can tell just when the twilight ends or begins And in many cases when the mind begins to show evident signs of decay from old age or disease when the mental faculties are confessedly becoming impaired, the line which separates capacity from incapacity is almost as uncertain as that which divides the twilight from the darkness The true test and the only one in such cases is has he capacity to govern himself and his affairs In Browne on Medical Jurisprudence page 96, the remarks of Lords Lyndhurst and Chelmsford in a celebrated case in England are quoted with approval to the effect that in order to justify a guardian there should be such mental unsoundness as to render the party incapable of governing himself and his affairs by reason of unsoundness of mind More weakness of character more liability to impulse or susceptibility of influence good or bad mere imprudence extravagance, recklessness eccentricity or immorality no nor all these put together would suffice unless the whole evidence showed them to be referrable to a morbid condition of the intellect

In re Collins 3 Green's Ch (N J) 253 the respondent was in her 100th year her hearing was somewhat impaired and her sight very much so The weight of the medical testimony, however, was in favor of her soundness of mind. The court held there was no presumption against her soundness of mind from her extreme age

She may says the chancellor "be so weak and infirm as to be easily influenced or imposed upon, which would be a reason for setting aside any instruments or transactions executed under the effect of such influence but this does not amount to unsoundness such as to take from her the control of herself and her property "

In Buswell on Insanity section [illegible] it is said that the law stated by the English courts and sustained by the weight of American authority is that the true rule is "Had the person the right use of his reason in reference to the thing done?

In Pennsylvania it is held (2 Brews 491) The true test lies in the word power Has the defendant in a criminal case the power to distinguish the right from wrong and the power to adhere to the right and avoid the wrong In other cases has the defendant the power to govern his mind his body and his estate

In the case of the State vs Murray (5 West Coast Reporter) the supreme court of this state speaking through Judge Thayer says If he (Murray) knew enough to know that he was violating the law by the commission of the act it will not excuse him though he had surrendered his judgment to some mad passion which for the time being was exercising a strong influence on his conduct

In Clark vs Ellis (9 Oregon it is said In Home vs Home (9 Iredell 99) with reference to the amount of testamentary capacity necessary it is said it is sufficient if the testator knew what he was doing and to whom he was giving his property and in Redfield on Wills 125 it is said that this is about as accurate and brief a definition as can be given

Gathered from these various definitions and statements I deem this to be the true rule in the case at bar Has the respondent sufficient capacity to care for his person and to understand comparatively the value of property and the power to control his actions with reference thereto This power of understanding may not be possessed in the highest degree It is sufficient if he has the power in the lowest degree If he has such knowledge of that subject as the most common individual has It is all that is required If he has not the appointment should be made

The power to appoint a guardian over a man's person and estate to divest him of all control over himself and the property which by long years of patient toil he has accumulated is an extraordinary power and one which ought to be exercised with the greatest caution It is no light thing to say that a man is no longer capable of conducting his own affairs and yet when the necessity for such action clearly appears the duty ought to be met and performed

With this understanding of the law we will consider the evidence

The respondent is [illegible] years of age He has resided in Oregon for [illegible] years and has made for himself and his children a name in the history of the state and its jurisprudence of which they may feel proud He has reared a family of children has educated them and had the proud satisfaction of seeing them all occupy honorable and useful places in the community following learned professions and making for themselves names that redound greatly to the credit of his name.

From the testimony it would seem that in the home of these parties as between the father and the rest of the family there has been a gulf widening out for several years and they now come before the court and open the door of their family closet hitherto so well closed and exhibit their skeleton to the world

Many of the matters brought out I shall leave with the remark They had better have remained hidden

Some of the matters alleged by the petitioners are attributed to illusions or delusions But delusions says Dr Hammond are not a test of insanity If they were one half of the world would be trying to put the other half in to lunatic asylums

To be indicative of insanity says the same author they must be contrary to the customary mode of thought of the individual

Taylor's Medical Jurisprudence [illegible] says Illusions are sensations produced by the false perception of objects In other words it must be an insane belief that [illegible] whatever If this insane [illegible] there is no evidence whatever to sustain it. [illegible] can be removed by an appeal to other senses or is [illegible] by the [illegible] reflection he is [illegible] otherwise he is not

None of the matters which are spoken of as delusions are shown to be without some foundation for belief The matter of his interest in the partnership is certainly not entirely without foundation The partnership has never been settled No balance of accounts has ever been struck and even though he may be wrong in thinking the business owes him something yet under the circumstances this cannot be considered a delusion and entirely without foundation for the belief

All six of the children with the wives of two of the sons testify to various acts of the respondent extending over a long series of years which petitioners insist go to establish unsound [illegible] mind and infirmity [illegible] which he is [illegible] incapable of caring for himself They have [illegible] many [illegible] [illegible] which are not necessary to report here

The most of these circumstances are disputed by the respondent in his testimony Between him and the petitioners there is such a hopeless contradiction as cannot be explained by loss of memory unsound mind or delusions. In the view I take of this case and the circumstances related it is not necessary to determine which is correct though in most instances the task would not be difficult. In most cases the children are too strongly supported to have all their statements of respondent believed

The respondent up to the 13th of September 18[illegible] was busily engaged in practicing law He had taken two of his sons into partnership with him [illegible] and successful business On the [illegible] day of September he was attacked by a [illegible] stroke of dizziness or vertigo of some [illegible] but which clearly arose from [illegible] disease of the heart Concerning this attack and its severity there is a wide difference in the testimony of respondent and his two sons who were with him

Dr C C Strong testifies that the attack was very severe and that his father was unconscious for a considerable time and that he was utterly unable to write a will or even dictate one that day after the attack In this he is corroborated by T N Strong who says he was in the office when the stroke occurred Judge Strong denies that he was unconscious and also denies that the attack was as severe as represented and produces a written will [illegible] that he says was made on that day written in a clear bold hand which meets the attack of vertigo and the making of a will He also produces a will of some three pages written in a firm hand indicative of steady nerves and a [illegible] head It is witnessed by A E Sears It [illegible] testifies it was executed about that time but he does not recollect the precise date and also by John Catlin but Mr Catlin is not questioned concerning the will T A and T N Strong both [illegible] that they never saw this will until it was executed or heard of it, but that about that time they did see a paper which was much blurred and [illegible] afterward taken away

It seems evident to me that his attack and those that succeeded it are much more severe than the respondent's version of them would seem to make them The [illegible] a little strange that no one [illegible] should have known of the attack [illegible] alarmed at his condition though it appears they tried to induce him to stop work after awhile But from that time he seems to have practically stopped work [illegible] he has [illegible] something, but in one instance related by Judge Deady, he was unable to try the case in which he was engaged, and since then he has done practically nothing, and has been supported by his sons. His memory at times has been much impaired, his health greatly shattered and at times he has been unable to call names of persons, places or even of members of his own family The children testify to various acts of shortness of memory, and to one act in the sick room of his wife which would if of frequent occurrence, clearly prove him of unsound mind But he explains by saying that he was walking in his sleep

There is nowhere in any of their testimony outside of the first attack in September 1879 and this one act above referred to anything which cannot be explained otherwise than to insanity or mental unsoundness All men are presumed to be of sound mind and sane until the contrary is proved and the respondent is clothed with this presumption till it is otherwise shown And if we can explain his actions by referring them to some other cause than insanity it ought to be done

His actions at the table may be ascribed to lack of attention to common manners, His abuse of his children to a churlish irritable temper while his schemes of making money with an incubator are not half so wild or expensive as many of the stock gambling schemes which have been engaged in by the wealthiest of our financiers

That he is forgetful is evident but this is an attribute of old age and one of its universal incidents

Thus if we take the statements of the petitioners themselves they fail to establish a case which would justify the court in declaring the respondent incapable of caring for himself

Judge Deady was called as a witness and gave very important testimony upon behalf of the petitioners He stated positively that in his opinion the respondent was incapable of caring for himself. He had good opportunities of observing the respondent and of judging of his mental condition His testimony was attempted to be shaken by calling out the fact that he had written a letter recommending in very general terms Judge Strong as minister to the Hawaiian islands But this letter was evidently written simply by a desire to get rid of an applicant for a position without a blunt refusal Outside of the family Judge Deady's opinion is not supported by a single witness.

John Catlin who probably knows as much of the respondent as any one except his children does not say that he is insane or incapable of caring for himself. He says Judge Strong is not the man he used to be, that he will not work, and that while he does not think he would sell his property for a less price than it is worth yet if he should sell it he would after paying what debts he had to upon the property foolishly spend the rest. But this falls far short of the test of capacity If a man has made his money he ought to be allowed to spend it.

It is claimed by the petitioners as one ground for the appointment of a guardian, that the mind of the respondent is so weakened that designing persons will impose upon and overreach him in the disposal of his property But this as we have seen from the authorities quoted is not a ground for the appointment of a guardian

In the language of the celebrated chancellor in the New Jersey case supra He may be so weak as to be easily influenced or imposed upon, which would be a ground of setting aside any instruments or transactions executed under the effect of such influence but this does not amount to such unsoundness as to take from him the control of him self and his property In such case if overreached the buyer would get nothing but trouble for his pains

The respondent himself in an examination lasting nearly four hours as well as in the manner of his cross-examination of the petitioners witnesses shows that he fully realized his position that his mind though somewhat forgetful of names and dates, and sometimes failing to remember a word is bright and active Petitioners say that very many of his answers were untrue as to matters of fact. If this be so it does not prove him of unsound mind His answers were rational and consistent and evinced a thinking reasoning understanding mind and showed him to be quite capable of conducting his own case Important though it was

In addition to his own testimony, respondent has called a very large number of witnesses, whose opinions are of importance in proportion to the opportunity they have had for intimate acquaintance Mr. Redfield one of the most learned of law writers upon the subject of mental capacity says Casual observers those but slightly acquainted with the person are liable to very great misapprehension in regard to the capacity of aged persons To a correct estimate upon the subject it seems to be requisite that one should not only possess general skill and experience upon the question but that he should have had long and familiar acquaintance with the particular person or at least ample opportunity to observe the precise state of the mental powers

Based upon this rule which is the correct one very many of these witnesses could have but little weight they were street acquaintances—men that he passed and repassed day after day, but with whom he occupied no personal or confidential relations But some of these witnesses were his intimately personal associates They all testify to his capacity to care for himself

Mr Whitehouse Hon Richard Williams Colonel Effinger ex Senator Corbett, Mr Failing, Mr Scoggin and Mr John Wilson may be mentioned as coming within this rule peculiarly qualifying them to speak of his mental soundness

Dr Glisan who has known him many years and who has seen him frequently of late years has seen nothing to indicate that he was of unsound mind

Dr Ghiselin who has been Judge Strong's physician for the past year and a half and who has seen him frequently during that time and has often prescribed for him says that in his opinion, the judge is capable of caring for himself That he is suffering from some heart disease which requires rest from severe mental labor his mind is not unsound so far as he has observed

Dr Watkins had noticed respondent and thought he was breaking down, both mentally and physically but saw no mental alienation

Dr Saylor has seen and conversed with Judge Strong very many times and gives it as his opinion that his mind is sound though somewhat impaired by old age

Dr Josephi whose great experience in dealing with the insane gives his opinion peculiar weight, heard respondent's testimony through and gave it as his opinion that while his memory was being shortened and impaired he was quite well able to care for himself

From all this testimony I conclude that respondent is not under the law incapable of caring for himself That his children have acted in good faith and for what they believed to be his best good in bringing this charge, there can be no doubt That respondent needs the assistance and care and ministrations of loving hearts and helpful hands is true Honestly and conscientiously his children have believed this could best be rendered through a guardian But we are assured that for this care and assistance he shall never lack when he shall accept it at their hands

I have considered this case as carefully as was possible in the time allotted. It is one of importance to the petitioners as well as to respondent. Under the view I take of the law and the facts a guardian cannot be appointed and the petition will be dismissed

WHEAT—Foreign markets open weak and dull cargoes being neglected. Chicago, New York and San Francisco are weaker [illegible] ence and the immediate outlook appears dark. Local holders remain firm, while buyers are less inclined to offer, anticipating a lower range abroad and a consequent weakness among holders here. We quote valley $1 15@1 [illegible]; Walla Walla $1 [illegible] 1 10 but largely nominal.

FLOUR—For local trade doing [illegible] prices [illegible] steady.

MARK LANE REVIEW

LONDON, May 4.—The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British grain trade during the past week, says: The weather has been seasonable. Sales of English wheat during the week were [illegible] quarters at [illegible] against [illegible] quarters at [illegible] during the corresponding week last year. Business in foreign wheat is small and unsatisfactory with values fluctuating from day to day as the prospects of peace or war increase. Off coast nothing is doing and eight cargoes arrived, one cargo was withdrawn and seven remain, including four of California. Fourteen cargoes are due. At to-day's market a little business was done owing to the uncertain condition of politics. Wheat was nominally 2 shillings lower. Flour dull and 1 shilling cheaper. Corn was scarce and barley rather lower. Beans and peas unchanged.

SAN FRANCISCO WHEAT MARKET

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The wheat market is [illegible] coming back to its normal condition as peace news from Europe becomes more and more pronounced in character. A decline of over 10 cents has taken place since Friday, when buyer the season closed at $1 5[illegible]. On Saturday the price had receded to $1 48[illegible] and to-day there was a further decline to $1 43.

LIVERPOOL GRAIN MARKET

LIVERPOOL, May 4.—Wheat quiet, [illegible] and poor, with holders offering freely. Corn steady and in fair demand. Weather in England showery.
